The present invention relates to an internal combustion engine of the type having a ventilation system for purifying the air-fuel mixture introduced into the combustion chamber of the engine by passing the air-fuel mixture through a diffusion tube connected to the exhaust system of the engine. In order to improve the performance of internal combustion engines and reduce pollution by automobiles, the engines have been improved in various ways. An example of such an improvement is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 4,141,084 assigned to the assignee of the present application. According to the engine disclosed therein, a diffusion tube, which is disposed within an intake pipe, causes the air-fuel mixture introduced into the intake pipe to be diffused in the combustion chamber. The exhaust gases from the engine flow into the interior of the intake pipe to remove the oil contained in the exhaust gases. It is considered that the diffusion tube efficiently purifies the air-fuel mixture and that the combustion in the combustion chamber is thereby enhanced. In the engine disclosed in the U.S. patent mentioned above, the oil contained in the exhaust gases is drawn back to the intake system by the exhaust gases. However, if the intake pipe is inclined downwardly, the oil may flow from the intake pipe into the combustion chamber instead of back to the intake pipe. This results in poorer purification of the air-fuel mixture and causes reduction in performance of the engine. Further, since the exhaust gas pipe is disposed near the intake pipe, there is a possibility that the air-fuel mixture may flow into the exhaust pipe. The air-fuel mixture flow into the exhaust pipe is a cause of remarkable reduction in the performance of the engine, while at the same time causing pollution and deterioration of exhaust gas quality.Posts Tagged 'time' Best Lyric: The first time we hold her in our arms and our baby smiles; seeing all the world's beauty, a blank canvas for us to share.
