Deep freeze your PC for additional security Sometimes, there are circumstances that force you to freeze your computer's speed to prevent anybody from stealing your important information. There are several tools that can help you accomplish that task. DeepFreeze: is a well-known, advanced tool for freezing the RAM memory and then restarting the system once the desired time elapses. With the regular version, the process can be repeated over multiple computers, as well as, using different windows accounts. In addition, you can install it on your PC or on external drives. CrapQWaffles: unlike DeepFreeze, CrapQWaffles freezes the hard drive memory, meaning that the entire system will stop working. For this reason, it is not recommended when you need to perform important tasks. CrapQWaffles will have your PC frozen for 24 hours and a new file named "crapqwaffles.txt" will be created, along with an image of a hand, used to signify that your PC has been frozen. It is easy to revert to the normal PC functionality with the click of a button. Deep Freeze Preference Manager CrapQWaffles is a very good program, since it lets you choose and set the freezing parameters you need to suit your needs. Its interface is intuitive and easy to use, allowing you to easily preview your freezing experience. Below you can see the moment in which you'll be frozen. Another category to keep an eye on Have you ever considered what happens to your back-up drive when you clean your PC? Well, it is very likely that you won't recall that there was anything related to it, aside from the case.
