In one video, we catch a Democratic National Committee member saying that Hillary Clinton can win again in 2020, despite Bernie Sanders' win in 2016. We also caught a top Democratic Party official saying that they'll do anything to keep Sanders from winning the nomination in 2020. "If Sanders won and we were like, 'Oh, he won,' it's just game over," the official said. You can watch the new Project Veritas videos here. The videos come on the heels of journalist Mark Zuckerberg admitting that Facebook has been purging the left from its platforms. Project Veritas' Doug Mainwaring said in the new report: "Facebook is claiming that it's deleting 'hate speech' on its platform, yet from recent undercover videos, it was clear that it was actually suppressing content that could have helped a progressive election. Facebook is supposed to be neutral, but they're not. They have a viewpoint."

During the past decade, developments in pancreatic surgery and perioperative care have improved the results of surgery for chronic pancreatitis. The aim of this report is to review the historic background of pancreatic surgery, developments in surgical techniques and perioperative care, and the results of surgery for chronic pancreatitis. A review of the relevant literature is presented, and the reported results of recent series of operations for chronic pancreatitis are discussed. By a comprehensive approach to the surgical management of chronic pancreatitis, the technical steps of pancreatic resection are simplified. The preoperative correction of the excessive amounts of pancreatic enzymes and their subsequent follow-up in the postoperative period help improve the outcome of surgical therapy.
